GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—President Wilson's address to congress brought about considerable selling of grain today, chiefly by dealers who drew quick inferences that the outlook for an early peace had been improved, but the bulk of the trade held off. Prices closed unsettled a shade to be carry per lower. GRAIN

Until the president's address became a factor, corn prices displayed firmness. As soon, however, as bulletins began to come telling what the president had said, prices began to sag. No adequate outline of the address was available on 'change here before the session, closed. session closed.

Selling of oats was much more free than in corn. Support failed to appear until the market had broken 21/2c in some cases.

Prospects of larger receipts of hogs weakened provisions. Close:
